

Contents

List of Contributors	ix
Part 1 Introduction	1
1 Studying the Use of Mobile Technology
Barry Brown	3
1.1 Introduction.....	3
1.2 Understanding the Technology	5
1.3 Tracing the Non-development of the Mobile Phone.....	7
1.4 Understanding the Technology in Use.....	10
1.5 Overview of the Book	11
Notes.....	14
References.....	14
Part 2 Locating Mobile Technology	17
2 The Mutable Mobile: Social Theory in the Wireless World
Geoff Cooper	19
2.1 Introduction.....	19
2.2 Transparency, Visibility, Audibility.....	20
2.3 Conjunctions of Remote and Co-present Interaction.....	21
2.4 Mobility and Location.....	24
2.5 Being Available.....	27
2.6 Conclusion: Mobile Theory.....	29
Notes.....	30
References.....	31
3 Who's Watching Whom? Monitoring and Accountability in Mobile Relations
Nicola Green	32
3.1 Introduction.....	32
3.2 Surveillance and Mobile Technologies.....	33
3.3 Who's Watching Whom?	38
3.4 Surveillance and Accountability	42
Notes.....	44
References.....	44

4 The Region as a Socio-Technical Accomplishment of Mobile Workers

Eric Laurier 46

4.1 Introduction 46

4.2 Pre-assembled Parts 48

4.3 Assembling a Mobile Office 48

4.4 Boundary Work 53

4.5 Out of a Mobile Office 56

4.6 Broken Parts 57

4.7 Summing up a Region 58

Notes 60

References 60

5 Mobile Communications in the Twenty-first Century City

Anthony M Townsend 62

5.1 Introduction: The Arrival of Mass Mobile Communications in the City 62

5.2 Object and Self-Personal Relationships with Mobile Telephones 67

5.3 City and System 70

5.4 Conclusions: Rethinking the City 72

Notes 76

References 76

Part 3 From Ethnography to Use 79

6 Seeing the “Rules”: Preliminary Observations of Action, Interaction and Mobile Phone Use

Ged M Murtagh 81

6.1 Introduction 81

6.2 Analytical Background 81

6.3 Ethnomethodology, Technology and Situated Practice 82

6.4 Rules, Social Action and Technology Use: The Case of Air Traffic Control 83

6.5 Displaying the ‘Rules’ 84

6.6 Non-vocal Responses 84

6.7 Body Movements 85

6.8 The Unanswered Phone 86

6.9 Other Common Sense Considerations 87

6.10 Time 88

6.11 Conversational Topic 88

6.12 Future Research and Future Technology: The Issue of Design . . . 89

6.13 Conclusion 90

Notes 91

References 91

7 Local Use and Sharing of Mobile Phones

Alexandra Weilenmann and Catrine Larsson	92
7.1 Introduction	92
7.2 Mobile Phone Research	93
7.3 In the Field	94
7.4 Sharing of Mobile Phones	95
7.5 Discussion	102
Notes	106
References	106

8 Running and Grimacing: The Struggle for Balance in Mobile Work

John Sherry and Tony Salvador	108
8.1 Introduction	108
8.2 Intel's Architecture Labs and Mobile Technologies	109
8.3 The Technological Imperative: "Anytime, Anywhere Computing"	113
8.4 Access to Other People	114
8.5 Awareness and Coordination	115
8.6 Creating Information	117
8.7 Conclusion	118
Notes	119
References	120

9 Blurring the Boundaries: Cell Phones, Mobility, and the Line between Work and Personal Life

Diana Gant and Sara Kiesler	121
9.1 Introduction	121
9.2 The Social Meaning and Influence of Settings	121
9.3 One-person, One-number: The Trial of a Personal Phone	123
9.4 Results	124
9.5 Conclusions	129
References	131

Part 4 From Use to Design 13310 Welcome to the Wireless World: Problems Using and Understanding Mobile Telephony

Leysia Palen and Marilyn Salzman	135
10.1 Introduction	135
10.2 Related Work	136
10.3 Method of Study	136
10.4 Findings: Attributes of Wireless Telephony	139
10.5 Conclusions	151
References	153

11 Framing Mobile Collaborations and Mobile Technologies

Elizabeth F Churchill and Nina Wakeford 154

- 11.1 Introduction 154
- 11.2 Creating the Consumption of Mobile Devices 156
- 11.3 Understanding Representations of Mobile Workers 161
- 11.4 Understanding the Practice of Mobile Work 164
- 11.5 Broadening the Concept of Mobile Work:
Reflections on Fieldwork 172
- 11.6 Putting it all Together: Design Frameworks for Collaboration on the Move 173
- 11.7 Conclusions and Summary 176
- Notes 177
- References 177

12 Exploring the Relationship between Mobile Phone and Document Activity during Business Travel

Kenton O'Hara, Mark Perry, Abigail Sellen and Barry Brown 180

- 12.1 Introduction 180
- 12.2 Our Approach 180
- 12.3 Previous Research 181
- 12.4 The Study 181
- 12.5 Findings 183
- 12.6 Implications for Mobile Technologies 192
- 12.7 Conclusion 194
- Notes 194
- References 194

13 Usability of Portable Devices: The Case of WAP

Vincent Helyar 195

- 13.1 Introduction 195
- 13.2 Usability 196
- 13.3 User Perceptions of a First Generation WAP Service 196
- 13.4 Results 198
- 13.5 The Right Approach to Portability 200
- 13.6 Conclusion 205
- References 206

14 The Mobile Interface: Old Technologies and New Arguments

Richard Harper 207

- 14.1 Introduction 207
- 14.2 Current Forms of the Interface 209
- 14.3 Radical Form Factors 215
- 14.4 User Perceptions of the Mobile Interface 218
- 14.5 Interfaces to Social Process 220
- 14.6 Conclusions 223
- References 223

Index 227